It is no secret that today modern technologies are deeply penetrating all aspects of our lives. In such a period of accelerated development in every field, new requirements and opportunities are emerging. In particular, the resolution of the President of the Republic of Uzbekistan Shavkat Miromonovich Mirziyoyev dated May 19, 2021 “On measures to bring the popularization of foreign language learning in Uzbekistan to a qualitatively new level” was also an important factor in supporting this process. This resolution opened the door to wide opportunities for everyone in learning a foreign language.

Today, modern technologies have become an integral part of our everyday life. As a result, there are no such great difficulties in learning and teaching foreign languages as before. The conditions created for teaching English and other languages in our country, the systemic reforms being implemented, encourage the younger generation to strive for high goals. Also, nowadays, knowing several languages has reached the level of not only interest, but also necessity. For example, the fact that a foreign language certificate will be mandatory for admission to higher education institutions from 2023 is also an indication of the growing demand.

The role of innovative technologies in learning foreign languages is incomparable. People have the opportunity to learn a language independently at home through online platforms and social networks, without attending any additional courses. This saves time, ensures efficient use of financial resources, and ensures high-quality results. The use of English content, films, audio podcasts, e-books, e-dictionaries, native speaker speeches, and various methods significantly increases the learning process.

Especially in the comprehensive education of the younger generation, the widespread application of information technologies in the language teaching process is an important factor. The use of films, cartoons, videos, and other media in the lesson not only increases the student's interest in the lesson, but also strengthens their memory, understanding, and application skills. You can increase your vocabulary through electronic dictionaries and various applications, and develop your speaking skills by finding and communicating with friends from all over the world.

In conclusion, we can say that today learning a foreign language is not just a necessity, but has reached the level of modernity. Effective use of information technologies not only helps to master the language perfectly, but also to reach high heights in every field. After all, knowing several languages is the key to success.
